OPINION

KING, Circuit Judge:

The government appeals from the district court's published opinion and order of August 17, 2010, granting the joint pre-trial motion of the five defendants-appellees — Mohamed Ali Said, Mohamed Abdi Jama, Abdicasiis Cabaase, Abdi Razaq Abshir Osman, and Mohamed Farah — to dismiss the 18 U.S.C. § 1651 piracy count from the eight-count superseding indictment brought against them. See United States v. Said, 757 F. Supp. 2d 554 (E.D. Va. 2010).¹ The defendants were charged with piracy under § 1651 for attacking, but not seizing or otherwise robbing, a United States Navy ship. See id. at 556-57 (describing indictment's allegations that, around 5:00 a.m. on April 10, 2010, defendants fired at least one shot on USS Ashland from skiff in Gulf of Aden). The district court's ruling dismissed the piracy count from the indictment, pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 12, because no taking of property was alleged. Id. at 556.

We heard oral argument in the government's interlocutory appeal from the Said opinion on March 25, 2011, and that same day ordered the parties to file supplemental briefs addressing the legal propriety of the procedure employed by the district court to dismiss the piracy count from the indictment. Thereafter, on April 20, 2011, we placed this appeal in abeyance pending our decision in United States v. Dire, No. 11-4310(L), ___ F.3d ___ (4th Cir. 2012), which we issue today in tandem with this opinion.² We hereby remove this appeal from abeyance, vacate the district court's Said opinion, and remand for such other and further proceedings as may be appropriate, consistent with our decision in Dire.

VACATED AND REMANDED

¹The government has not appealed the dismissal of the piracy count as to the sixth defendant charged in the indictment, Jama Idle Ibrahim.

²Notably, counsel for the defendants in this appeal submitted an amicus curiae brief in support of the appeals of the Dire defendants.
